Wilmington Vet gets a firsthand look at the Iditarod

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - A year ago, on a lark, he and his son took a three-day dog sledding course in upstate New York. At that time Dr. Richard Hahn never imagined that he would soon find himself a participant in the ceremonial start of the very prestigious Iditarod.

The Iditarod, an 1,150 mile long dog sled race traversing the formidable terrain of Alaska over a period of 10 to 17 days, is a one of a kind event to say the very least.

After taking his dog sledding course, Hahn did a little bit of research on the Iditarod and found that, through a bidding process, he could win a chance to ride in a sled with a genuine Iditarod "musher" during the ceremonial start of the race.

A musher, of course, is the term for the person driving the sled and running the team of dogs.

With a bid of $1,700, Hahn won the opportunity to ride with Debbie Moderow, the friend of a friend.

Local Fire Fighter injured

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - A local Fire Fighter sustained injuries while assisting the Reading Fire Department early Monday morning.

Lt. John Brown, a veteran fire fighter with more than 30 years on the job, suffered serious, but non-life threatening injuries when he fell 20-feet from a ladder.

Wilmington fire fighters were in Reading at approximately

The auction that Hahn participated in raises money to pay for a portion of the purses to go to the mushers. Prior to the introduction of the auction, there was not enough money to pay all of the finishers. Now, the top 30 finishers split a large purse and the remaining money is used to pay the rest of the finishing racers.

"The winning musher, this year, will get approximately $75,000," Hahn said. "But that doesn't even begin to cover the costs incurred."

Training and qualifying to achieve a spot in the Iditarod can easily run anywhere from $20,000 to $60,000; and that does not take into consideration the costs of the dogs and the gear.

Hahn's ride with Moderow began on the main street of Anchorage and followed a 12 mile course.

"Throughout the course of the winter, Anchorage stockpiles snow and then brings it in to spread all over Fourth Street for that ceremonial start," Hahn said.

People line the sides of the street and throughout the entire 12 mile route to watch the ceremony and to hold signs supporting their favorite mushers.

"What you can't imagine is the power and enthusiasm of these dogs," Hahn said. "You feel the breeze and wind going down your collar."

As a first hand observer, and veterinarian, Hahn scoffs at any allegations of inhumane treatment towards the dogs.

"Those dogs love pulling the sled," Hahn said. "If they did not want to pull the sled, you wouldn't be able to get them to move."

A minimum of 40 veterinarians are involved in the race and the safeguards designed to protect the dogs are impressive. The dogs, for instance, are examined by a veterinarian at each major checkpoint

Town Meeting article review

Proposed Wetlands Protection By-law faces opposition

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The Planning Board and the Finance Committee met jointly on March 15 to review the 33 articles appearing on the warrant for the upcoming Town Meeting to be held on April 23 at the Lawrence H. Cushing Gymnasium at Wilmington High School.

It was a public hearing and residents were encouraged to speak in support or opposition to the various articles.

Article 18, proposing to implement a local Wetlands Protection by-law, was one of the very few articles to engender debate.

According to the warrant, the purpose of the by-law would be to protect the town's wetlands, water resources, and adjoining land areas by controlling activities deemed by the Conservation Commission as potentially detrimental to wetland areas.

The proposed by-law would restrict activities within 200 feet of rivers and lakes, and within 100 feet of "other resource areas."

Residents in attendance were unanimous in their opposition to the article, citing what they saw as inappropriate infringements on the rights of property owners and the removal of an appeal process for denials of building permits.

At least one resident was very concerned by the authorization, for the purpose of enforcement, of Conservation Commission agents, "to enter upon privately owned land for the purpose of performing their duties under this by-law."

According to Winifred McGowan, Assistant Director of Conservation & Planning, agents would only be authorized to enter private property pursuant with state and federal law.

The article stipulates that agents may enter private property, "as the Commission deems necessary, subject to the constitutions and laws of the United States and the Commonwealth."

According to McGowan, there are a number of wetlands violators in town, but the Conservation Commission, under current conditions, has no way to track them down.

Donald Ugolini, a former member of the Conservation Committee, spoke out against the proposed by-law despite his longstanding position of staunch protection of wetlands.

"Most of all, I'm in favor of protecting our rights as property owners in this town that you and I call home. By approving the proposed wetlands by-law, you will give up your right of appeal. If you are denied by

JAN SCHLICHTMANN, the world renowned attorney met with members of UNITY at Wilmington Memorial Library on Tuesday night to present them with the 468B Trust he designed especially for the group. Pictured with Schlichtmann are UNITY members Kathy Barry and Melissa Banks. UNITY has been formed to offer support to parents and families whose children are ill. For the first time ever in such a situation, a 468B Trust is being utilized to enable the families to remain together from a legal perspective. This innovative and groundbreaking legal device has been established on behalf of UNITY by Schlichtmann. "This is the first time that such a Trust has been established to recognize that the whole family has to make this journey together," Schlichtmann said. "This will enable all of the families to stay together legally."

HOW MUCH ESTIMATED TAX

After years of earning a salary and having taxes withheld, the new retiree has to decide how much estimated tax to pay each quarter. There are several ways to proceed.

Here's one easy way. Take the first quarter's income and multiply by four; that is annualized net income. Figure the estimated tax on that, then divide by four to figure the first quarter's payment. At the end of the second quarter, multiply income to date by two and figure the tax on that. The second installment, with the first, should cover half the annual tax. Keep correcting, if necessary, each quarter for the first year.

After the first year, it's fairly simple. To avoid penalties, pay in at least 90 percent of your current tax liability or 100 percent of last year's. But if adjusted gross income was more than $150,000, or $75,000, the safe-harbor amount is 110 percent of the last year's taxes. Note: safe harbor may lead to an overpayment.

Rogues say Thank-you

Dear Editor,
The Jolly Rogues would like to thank Rocco's Restaurant for all that great food that they donated for the Local Heroes benefit concert. We would also like to thank the Dance Company of Wilmington for those cute Irish Step dancers. Last Friday night we raised $1000.00 in cash plus many generous donations of food and supplies, which will be used by Local Heroes for the next few months worth of CARE packages to be sent to our brave service men and women.

I hope that we can make this an annual event as we meet some really great people doing great work and would love to do this next year again.

What is Wilmington getting?

Dear Editor,
Regarding the article in the Town Crier dated March 2, 2005 concerning the development of the Inwood project in Woburn. This parcel of land is in Woburn, though nowhere near the City of Woburn proper. It does not border any Woburn residential areas. However, it does border Reading and Wilmington residents. My biggest concern is the traffic it is going to generate on West St. and especially the heavily congested intersection at West St. and Lowell St.

According to the article, the City of Woburn is receiving $1,390,000 for a number of projects to be done in Woburn. (See attached highlighted list) Woburn seems to really be making out in this deal.

My question is, WHAT IS WILMINGTON GETTING FROM THIS PROJECT?

West St. is going to be carrying heavy loads on huge trucks along with other construction vehicles while this project is being built. After it is complete West Street will be used for all the residents living in this Woburn community. Another question I have, is whose town will be responding to fire and police emergencies at this complex?

I have read numerous articles over the course of many years regarding the development of this property, not once have I read that Wilmington will be getting anything for the use of its roads. This makes me anxious to think that our town leaders have dropped the ball on this. Please let the residents of the Town of Wilmington know what is going to be done for Wilmington.

Sincerely,

Lissa Randell
14 Suncrest Ave.
Concerned Resident

(Editor's note: In April 2004, the developers of the Inwood project pledged $475,000 to the Town of Wilmington for improvements to the West Street/Lowell Street intersection. Those plans include the widening of Lowell Street and the addition of a right hand turn lane designed to circumvent the existing traffic light for the purpose of leading traffic directly toward the Interstate 93 interchange.)

Setting the library record straight

Dear Editor,
As Library Director of the Wilmington Memorial Library, I would like to respond to some of the statements that have been made in recent letters regarding the current library facility as well as the proposed new library.

The current library was built in 1969 prior to the passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA). The current facility is not in compliance with ADA requirements nor with the requirements of the Massachusetts Architectural Access Board (MAAB). Although a person in a wheelchair can enter the library via an automatic door on the side of the building, he/she will not have entered a building that is completely accessible. According to the above codes, aisles in book stacks are required to have minimum 36 inch width (42 inches is recommended) with a 48 inch turnaround for a wheelchair. The width of the book stacks at the Wilmington Memorial Library ranges from 25 inches to 36 inches. More than 25 book stacks have a dead end and others only have a 24 inch turnaround. Due to the overcrowded conditions in the library, especially in the Children's Room, there are areas that are not wide enough for wheel chair access. There is one handicapped restroom on the second floor but none on the first floor. There are other areas of concern including the size of the elevator that is too small to meet handicapped requirements.

Some letters have cited construction costs of libraries in other towns. When comparing the project costs, it is necessary to know the size of the project and when the project when out to bid in order to present a fair comparison. For example, Boxborough (population 4,937) was a town that was cited in a previous letter. Boxborough broke ground for its new 13,258 square foot library in October 2003, which means it was bid 18 months ago. During this period, construction costs have dramatically escalated, especially the price of steel and wood products. We can assume that these costs will continue to rise. Consequently, the timing of the bids and the size of the proposed library are reflective of the cost. It should be noted that Wilmington's population is 22,238 and its current library facility is 15,000 square feet. The size of Wilmington's proposed library is 34,930 square feet and the estimated cost of 11.6 million is based on going out to bid in 2007. Wilmington is one of 41 communities in the Commonwealth that have applied for a construction grant. If Wilmington is awarded a grant, the project cost will be reduced by 3.3 million dollars, leaving a balance of 8.3 million dollars.

As Library Director, I cannot confirm that the proposed design sketches that are submitted with letters to the editor meet the zoning codes, building code requirements or library service needs. I can assure you that the proposed new library does meet these requirements and that the plans were developed by architects who have had experience in building many other public libraries. If you have any questions about the proposed new library, please stop by the library to look at the plans and talk with me or any other member of the library staff.

Sincerely yours,
Christina A. Stewart
Library Director

Everything's A Story

by Andrea MacMullin

The blissful job of motherhood. When I "signed up" for this, I never imagined the wide range of duties that I would perform. Before children come into your lives, you expect the skinned knees, an occasional glass of spilled milk, or a minor squabble over a shared toy. Before motherhood, one might imagine frolicking through a meadow with their children, their crisp, gleaming clothes glistening in the sunlight, their perfectly combed hair flowing in the wind, and laughter filling the day as you investigate the wonders of nature.

This has yet to become a reality in my household. First of all, I would probably be stricken with a severe case of hayfever if I was anywhere near a meadow, and my children would run screaming if they encountered a bee. And the crisp gleaming clothes? Well, if we can find two matching socks we're in business. And now we are at the stage where a certain almost five-year female wants to wear sundresses in January. Frolicking in a meadow we are not.

Being a mother is nothing like I imagined, but it's more than I could have ever hoped for. But, ten years ago if someone told me some of the things that I have encountered thus far, I would have looked on in horror.

By now, I am barely phased at the notion of throwing sheets in the washing machine at one a.m. and cleaning up a rather unpleasant mess. (All mothers know exactly what I'm talking about on this one).

And just recently I had the experience of so many mothers before me. I had heard of it in whispers and dread, and thought I would absolutely wither like a dead flower if it happened to me.

As I held my youngest who was suffering from an ear infection, she squirmed and twisted, complaining of a stomach ache. Obviously, not knowing what was coming, and being totally unprepared, I sat her straight in front of me and looked at her. Then, it happened. I knew the look in her eyes, and she opened her mouth. Yes. In my face. Luckily, I had the good sense to close my mouth.

As a mother, you struggle with split second decisions. Do I tend to my own immediate and, at the time, narcissistic needs? Or do I care for my little one, who is in a miserable state, and so needs my attention?

Well, it is possible to both, maybe not doing a very efficient job at either, but in the end, it all ends up okay. And that is what I have learned about so many aspects of being a mother. Someone once told me, "you do what you need to do to get through the day."

Before becoming a mother, I had it all figured out. As I observed other parents making obvious mistakes, I knew exactly how I would parent. I would never make more than one meal, for dinner. My children would go to bed on time. I would never start that silly practice of going out for an aimless drive to get a toddler to sleep. I have been humbled so many times.

I know there are many years of ahead of me, with new and unknown obstacles. Now, I don't predict that I will know what to do. I'll just take it as it comes, "and do what it takes, to make it through the day."

Letters to the editor

It's not about the Joneses at all

Dear Editor,
As a supporter for the proposed new Wilmington library, I would like to respond to the claim that we should not be trying to "keep up with the Joneses." The claim suggests that (1) Wilmington doesn't need a new library; (2) those who think it does are just interested in keeping pace with surrounding cities and towns who are improving theirs; and (3) these supporters have a total disregard for the cost of a new library. While I strongly disagree with all three charges, I'm writing in response to the second one, which I feel has gone the most unanswered.

Based on data that I found on the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners web site, I am amazed at how far behind Wilmington has fallen compared to other towns. Forget the Joneses! We've fallen behind the whole neighborhood!

Wilmington is ranked #34 out of the 35 libraries in its consortium in terms of upgrading its facilities. Since the Wilmington Memorial Library opened in 1969, EVERY member of the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium, with one exception, has either renovated or built a new library. That's a fact!

Excluding Woburn, EVERY city and town contiguous to Wilmington - Andover (1988), Billerica (1999), Burlington (1996), North Reading (1991), Reading (1983), and Tewksbury (1999) - has renovated or built a new library. Woburn, like Wilmington, is one of the 41 communities to apply for the 2004-2005 Massachusetts Public Library Construction Grant Round.

Wilmington is ranked #11 out of the 54 libraries in Massachusetts communities with a population of 15,000-24,999 in terms of upgrading its facilities. Wilmington is in the bottom 20% of this category. No surprise there.

All this, by itself, DOESN'T prove that Wilmington needs a new library. I am NOT saying that if Tewksbury jumps off a bridge, Wilmington should too. This DOES show, however, that cities and towns have done (and are doing) what Wilmington is trying to do - upgrade their library facilities. Even more pertinent to this discussion, in NO way does any of this DISPROVE that Wilmington needs a new library.

If you sit down and think about this "Joneses" argument actually uses the fact that Wilmington has fallen so far behind as a reason not to catch up. Wilmington's poor standing in comparison to other libraries (whether from its consortium, neighboring towns and cities, or communities similar in population) should ONLY help, not hinder, its quest in improving its facilities.

On a personal note... As a recent WHS graduate and a commuter student attending a near-by college, the public library plays an important part in my education as it does for students of all ages. A good public library goes hand in hand with good public schools. If you support quality education, then I encourage you to join me in supporting the proposed new library.

Did my best not to offend anyone,
Robert Hayes

Letter to the editor

Presidential politics

Dear Editor:

As I progressed in life from a young adult to a senior citizen, and forced to accept what ever was pushed down my throat as the next Presidential Candidates running for President. They are a bunch of egocentric individuals who generally worked part time in city, state, and federal government political positions, either elected or appointed. Those that graduated from college with a Law degree think that the public can hardly wait to see them at work trying to make the country better in all respects.

I am amazed and grateful that in this free country that anybody, male or female, who is at least 35 years old and born in the U.S.A. can run for president, like a high school drop-out, farmer, factory worker, a sports announcer, movie actor, any outstanding contributor to the country, etc. Why in this country, with the major political party's, Democrats and Republicans, they don't form a "Presidential Nomination Committee" to screen all that wish to run for their party. One problem would be they must be totally unbiased. Lets take a look at what materialized in the Democratic Party a few weeks ago. Looser, in the 2004 Presidential Election John F. Kerry apparently is planning another try in 2008 and has appointed Howard Dean, chairman of the Democratic Nat. Comm. to concuer any competitive Republican. All they need now is another Washington Politician and we could nick name them- Larry, Mo and Curley. Lets take a look at this amazing duo that would like to have the entire nation in their hands. After all, the two graduated from the Pres. Bill Clinton school of "three strikes and your out."

1st, Lets start with Howard Dean. When he left office as Governor of VT. in 2003, His secretary and Attorney General agreed that his records would be sealed for 10 years- the longest time for any VT. Governor. This, I am sure it would be for "Strike No. 1".

2nd, His reason for having the records sealed was because "we didn't want anything embarrassing appearing in the papers at a critical time in and future endeavor." The way I look at it is, if you have nothing to hide, you have nothing to worry about. Consequently, this sounds like a good reason "for Strike No. 2."

3rd, The Iowa voters at the primary surely let him know they have no intentions of letting him run their country. This decision is a "no brainer" "Strike No. 3, your out!"

1ST, lets take on Senator John F. Kerry and see what might develop. Senator Kerry made it very easy to hand out reasons for striking out. Such as his tour of duty in Vietnam. He came back as a questionable hero, particularly by his fellow sailors. He also had three Purple Heart Medals which also had questions about one that could have been self-inflicted of course this qualified him for an early trip home. He was chastised for his anti-war activities after returning home from only a four-month stint and eventually earned the nick name of "Hanoi John." When Kerry attempted to degrade President Bush's National Guard duty as less honorable than other military service, he did nothing but upset many soldiers and sailors who served and are presently in the National Guard. I could go on for ever. Another outstanding strike came from the debates with President Bush and speeches on the country tour. He was asked questions many times and I'll bet I heard his favorite answer "I have a plan," hundreds of times and he would need to be in office 25 years to fulfill half of them.

At this point, he sure has many more than two strikes against him. I think the umpire was Bill Clinton and called dozens of foul balls.

The finale was the loss of the Presidential Election for a sure and unquestionable "no brainer Strike 3"- Your out.

So, why would the democrats allow Larry, MO and Curly to prepare for another run for the President of the U.S.A. That would give them two strikes on the Presidential Elections and 2012 would be the official "3 strikes" and your definitely out. After the election last November, which was won by President George Bush, the Democrats shed enough tears to refill the Missouri River. They can only blame themselves because in the past 30 years Congress kept promoting money for better education in this country. Well, after 80 years of people getting smarter they started using their head instead of their potential political fork-tongue bureaucrat reasons why they should be elected.

Well, this all adds up to, when the majority of the people get smarter, they make better decisions. That is why Bush is President. He not only did not strike out the first time, he worked out a base on balls and the second time he smacked a good double right down the line and also knocked in two RBI's. Please don't get me wrong, I am not a Republican. However, some times the smarter majority can screw-up, like they did for Clinton and Carter.

Sincerely Yours,
Richard Smith

Resignation with regret

Open letter to the voters of Wilmington.

Voters of Wilmington, Mr. McDuff, Fellow board members,

It is with a heavy heart that I address you this evening. As most of you are aware I have been going through a divorce since the fall of 2003. Thankfully, on January 13th of this year we settled and got divorced. The most important outcome was that I received joint custody of our 2 boys.

For over a year I have been juggling time with my boys, work, coaching 3 sports, serving on this committee, the master plan committee and attending to other political and civic obligations.

Last week while getting ready for yet another meeting my oldest asked me why I have so many meetings and that he did not want my sister to babysit. When I asked him why, he told me that "I miss you and most nights your not here to put me and Patrick to bed." As I am sure you all can understand, I was very upset with his concerns.

As any parent will understand there is nothing more important than you children's happiness and well being. It is therefore I have had no choice but to resign all boards and committees that I had been elected or appointed to. Effective immediately, I will no longer be able to serve on the Town of Wilmington's School Committee or continue being this boards representative to the Town's Master Plan Committee.

Volunteers needed

Hallmark Health Hospice is seeking volunteers to help in the office, which is located at 100 Hospital Road in Malden. In addition to general office assistance, administrative volunteers are needed to help with many fundraising and outreach projects throughout the year. "Volunteers at Hallmark Health Hospice play a very important role in non-medical care," says David Dismas, Volunteer Coordinator.

I appreciated having had the opportunity the voters afforded me to represent the interests of the Towns children and its schools. Although, of still great importance to me, I have to put Michael and Patrick first. I will thankfully be able to continue coaching. These are my only positions that I can keep that will not keep me from spending as much time with my boys as possible.

Sincerely,
Michael R. Baker

GOT YOU COVERED?

Too often, owners of small, closely held businesses presume their business insurance will take care of itself. That is to say that many small business owners purchase insurance when they set up their business, then forget it. Rarely do they review their policies to see if they are appropriate or adequate. Instead, they just roll their coverage over, insuring assets that may no longer even be in existence. Nor does this automatic approach to business insurance uncover inadequacies. For instance, business interruption insurance may not pay for some inventory in some locations. And while small business owners may think of disaster insurance in terms of fire or 9/11, they may overlook the loss of a key player or supplier.

Whether your business is large or small, we have the products to meet your needs. Every business and industry is unique; we identify ways to properly insure the hazards of your business. As business owners ourselves, we understand the special protection businesses need to prosper. This is just one of the services we provide. We stress the importance of updating all types of insurance policies. We offer insurance protection for your needs. For more information or to schedule an appointment, please call us at 978-657-7200. NOTE: It is imperative that business owners review their insurance coverage on an annual basis, meeting with their insurance agents regularly, as they might with accountants.

Central Catholic High School wins Regional Championship

Team advances all the way to 'Sweet 16'

ANDOVER - Lawrence's Central Catholic High School Mock Trial team has won its regional championship (Region #11), by defeating the Voyagers Resource Center team (Acton), on Thursday March 10, in a competition held at Concord (MA) District Court.

The Central Catholic team now advances to the sweet 16 round of the state tournament. 115 teams began this academic competition, which is sponsored by the Massachusetts Bar Association.

Each year the Bar Association contest judges students on their writing, thinking, speaking, and advocacy skills, while preparing a case for trial. This year's case charges the defendant with murder and conspiracy to commit arson. One of the remaining 16 teams will become state champion and advance to compete at the national level.

Central Catholic is coached by Central Catholic teacher Ashleigh Ward and Massachusetts School of Law's Associate Dean, Michael Coyne. Associate Dean Coyne said that "Central's victory and success in the competition over the last several years is a tribute to the strength of Central Catholic's academic program and to the school's deep commitment to expanding their students' intellectual curiosity while providing support to insure their intellectual growth."

Ward complimented the students "on their tireless work throughout the year developing a strategy, writing material, revising their work and honing their presentation skills. That the students would work on this noncredit project after school, on weekends and during vacations says a great deal about their diligence, character and integrity, which are the hallmarks of Central Catholic's students."

The Central Catholic High School team has won the regional championship for the last six years. The team's next trial was held on Monday, March 14, at Woburn District Court against the winner of Region 12, Chelmsford High

Mike McCoy candidate for Selectman

It is with great excitement and expectation that I formally announce my candidacy for reelection to the office of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

Once again, I choose to offer myself for this office with an understanding of the demands of the office and a clear vision of how I believe Wilmington should proceed in the years to come.

I am the only candidate running for election this April who is against new taxes. I am the only candidate against the construction of a new library.

It was not long ago that we built a new middle school and public safety building in which I was in favor. That debt will not be paid off until 2011. With the economy being sluggish, and dramatic cuts in our local aid from our state government, many of you, like myself, during the past year have received extra high tax bills because the housing market has increased so dramatically. It makes no sense to ask voters once again for more money at this time. I believe we should pay our debt down first and as the economy gets better and when we start receiving our fair share of local aid and we build up our reserves again, then and only then, would I consider building a new library.

Over the past two years I have been privileged to be chairman of the board of selectmen. Under my leadership, the board has been more accessible to the public than in years past. I've introduced a new segment on our agenda called "Public Comments." This segment gives every citizen in town an opportunity to address the board of selectmen directly, therefore cutting any red tape and hopefully getting results the same night or within a short period of time.

I have been consistent in all of my votes. I have never flip-flopped on an issue. As chairman of the board, whether I agreed or disagreed with a member on an issue, I've always been fair.

I believe that one of the most important qualities a selectman can possess is respect for his constituents. I have returned every single call placed to me and whenever an individual wanted to meet with me, I have always made the time. I have always demonstrated that I am able to work with anyone as long as it's in the best interest of the community. My voting record proves that.

I believe the neighborhoods of Wilmington and the people who occupy them deserve to understand that the continued growth of our town is conducted in a rational and sensitive manner.

As a member of the board of selectmen, we are holding companies who pollute our water supply accountable and I make this pledge to you: if you reelect me, I will do everything in my power to make sure we have clean water and use every means of the law to protect our best interest against polluters.

I am 46 years old. I have lived in Wilmington all of those 46 years. I am very happily married to Danielle and together we have three children. I hope some day that our children make their roots in Wilmington as well.

As a graduate of the Wilmington public schools and a holder of three college degrees, one of them being a master's degree, I believe I am educationally qualified for the post I seek, but education means nothing if it is not linked to a commitment to one's community. As a member of the Sons of Italy, Tewksbury Wilmington Elks, and the owner and operator of Michael's Place Restaurant here in town, I have stayed committed to my community.

Together we can ensure a quality of life for ourselves and our children benefiting all those who care about our community. This is my goal and pledge to you as your selectman and if you elect me selectman again, I will meet a milestone of twenty years of public service which has seldom been accomplished. I hope you give me the continued opportunity to serve you again. Over the next few weeks, I hope to talk to some of you during the campaign. I want to talk to you about your concerns and together we will make Wilmington a place we can call home.

In closing, every vote that I have ever made has always been in the best interest of the town of Wilmington. If you reelect me again, I will not let you down. Chairman Michael McCoy

Wilmington Board of Selectmen

Dot Butler running for Housing Authority

Hi, I'm Dot Butler, the same who was a member of the Wilmington Housing Authority Board for 13 years before family problems forced me into retirement 4 years ago. These issues are now in the past and I have the time and energy necessary to be an active and effective member of the Wilmington Housing Authority once more. I still attend all the WHA meetings.

I have lived in Wilmington for 50 years and as a tenant in Deming Way for almost 22 years. I was elected President of the Tenants Association and held that position from 1985 to 1989. I am very aware of the needs and concerns of Deming Way.

One of the things that surprised me when I moved into Deming Way was that the 40 units hadn't been painted or updated in 18 years. I worked hard and long to get the units painted and updated then and the time has come once again. The policy then and now is that a unit only gets painted etc. when a tenant moves out or passes away. The WHA will provide paint to the tenant with the labor being the responsibility of the tenant. This is an elderly housing development. The residents are elderly, disabled or both. Many of us are without help from family members or the means to hire outside workers. This development was built in 1958 and as everyone knows upkeep of property is important for the health and welfare of the residents, here or in a privately owned home. I am once again on a campaign to get these units clean, fresh, and updated.

Another concern we have in Deming Way is the sidewalks and road. The trees planted to beautify the development are now a safety issue. The roots are coming through the side walks causing heaves, and cracks. Many of us walk with the help of canes and walkers. We live in fear of falling and ending up in a nursing home. Some have taken to walking on the road and putting themselves in another dangerous situation, speeders. Some have hearing problems and can't hear these cars. The Wilmington Police are here quite often, but have been unable to catch these speeders. Someone has to do something before someone gets hurt or worse. If elected, I will have these problems fixed for the safety of all of us in Deming Way.

We have one maintenance man for all 72 units and 13 or 14 scattered homes that the WHA owns. This person is on call 24 hours a day. He does his best to take care of our needs, however, no one person can possibly do it all. I have learned there is no money available for more help. When it comes to the health and wellness of the tenants there should be money.

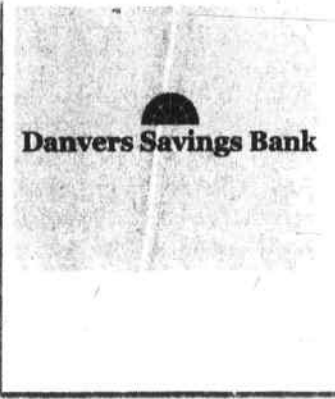

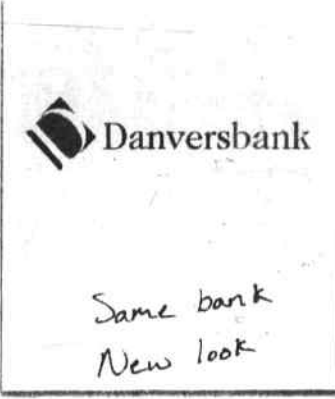

When I was a member of the WHA they built a new 2 story building. This building was built without an elevator. Again, this is housing for the elderly and disabled. Tenants were forced to carry bundles up the stairs to their units. I took it upon myself to do all the legwork necessary to get an elevator. We are thankful to Jim Miceli for getting the funds needed and to Market Basket for donating shopping carts.

These issues are my issues, I live in Deming Way. I know the problems and have always worked to make life better. The health and wellness of the tenants has always been my first concern.

A vote for Dot Butler is a vote for the disabled and elderly.

Tewksbury Public Schools 2004-2005 strategic plan mid-year report

By Christine L. McGrath,
PhD
Superintendent of Schools

The Tewksbury School Committee at its meeting on Wednesday, March 2, 2005 voted to adopt the 2004-05 Mid-Year Report. This report outlines the work of the school district in meeting the goals of the 2004-2005 strategic plan. This is the third year of the current strategic plan. This work spans the period from the start to the mid-point of 2004-05 school year. The work was reviewed by the School Committee at the Mid-year Joint Retreat held on Wednesday February 9, 2005.

The report details the efforts of the school district across the four major areas of the strategic plan. These areas include Curriculum and Instruction, School and Community, School Resources and Program Improvement.

Work in the area of Curriculum and Instruction includes the administration of a reading assessment in grade five. The purpose of the assessment is to measure the effectiveness of our elementary reading program. Elementary teachers continue the implementation of the TERC math program. Middle School teachers worked on the identification of "power standards" to strengthen their curriculum. High school faculty recorded the sequence of the social studies curriculum to prepare students for the new social studies MCAS. Efforts in the area of special education include preparing for the re-accreditation of the Integrated Preschool Program and the Mid-Cycle Coordinated Program Review.

The School and Community section of the report recounts our work in the area of school safety. We have compiled and distributed a Crisis Manual to all staff members. The district security team conducted a full-scale drill at Tewksbury Memorial High School to prepare for a school emergency. This drill included police, fire and school department personnel along with the Mobile Command Center from the Police Department.

The School Resources area continues to highlight work on our school facilities. The integrated Preschool Program vacated the Ella Flemings School and relocated to the Center School. The Offices of the Superintendent, Assistant Superintendent and Student Services also relocated to the Center School.

The primary work in the area of Program Improvement concerns the re-accreditation of Tewksbury Memorial High School. The faculty is working on the self-study and a sub-committee has developed a plan for the renovation of the school facility.

The true purpose of this report is to assess our progress to date in meeting the goals for the 2004-05 school year and to demonstrate our commitment to remain accountable to providing the best in instructional programs and services for our students.

Low cost loans available for assistive technology

An innovative loan program is now available to Massachusetts residents with disabilities, offering access to low-interest cash loans so they can purchase the assistive technology devices they need. Assistive technology is any device that enhances or expands a person's ability to live more independently, and includes communications devices, computer equipment, walkers, wheelchairs, hearing aids, print magnifiers, Braille, equipment and more. Certain vehicle and home modifications also are eligible for loans.

This innovative public-private partnership, called the Massachusetts Assistive Technology (MA AT) Loan Program, offers better interest rates than a traditional bank loan, and repayment is based on the expected useful life of the device purchased, allowing a longer pay back period. The loan program has no income limitations.

The Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission secured a federal grant for the program and chose Easter Seals to operate it, working in partnership with Sovereign Bank to handle the loan distribution and 20 local Access Sites to provide education and assistance with the application process.

Minuteman Senior Services is the local access site for processing applications for the MA AT Loan Program. Professional staff is trained to assist borrowers through the loan application process, as needed. Minuteman has been helping aging adults and their families for almost 30 years, offering over 20 different services to help people live independently. Minuteman is a member of the Massachusetts Network of Information Providers (MNIP), a network of disability-related agencies, coordinated by New England Index.

For more information about the AT Loan Program, contact Hilary Viola, AT Loan Specialist, at 781-221-7079, or h.viola@minutemansenior.org.

To all the healthcare workers and anyone else that has been so kind in helping my mother in her last months of life. I couldn't have her in a nicer place. When she first came here, she was a difficult person, but you understood her condition. She was never a person to give anyone a hard time before her seizures. In coming here daily, some of you have become good friends. What a great bunch of people!

Also to the business office that has been so helpful in her financial needs. I thank you for your sincere, heart felt efforts in making her most comfortable. I wish you all well and again my sincere appreciation in helping us through a difficult matter.

Wilmington Library Notes by Christina Stewart

Magic at the Library

A unique magic and juggling performance will be presented by Scott Jameson for the family audience on Wednesday, March 30th at 7 p.m. Not your typical magic show in the sense of "pull a rabbit out of a hat", his classic magic is artfully combined with extraordinary juggling and audience participation using mime, storytelling, a broad selection of musical styles and choreography to create a theatrical experience. Whether juggling basketballs, plucking huge umbrellas from mid-air, or interacting with the audience, Scott Jameson will present a show you won't soon forget. Tickets are required and may be reserved by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098 beginning Thursday, March 17th. Thanks to the Friends of the Library for funding this program.

Turtle Spring Story/Crafts

Turtle Spring Story/Crafts for children ages five and older will be held on Tuesday, March 22nd at 3:30 p.m. Please register by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098.

History of the Railroad

Wilmington resident and former Boston & Maine telegrapher, dispatcher and TRACKSIDE photographer, Don Hills has contributed some wonderful color photographs to a new book at the library - Trackside Along the Boston & Maine, 1945-1975, by Carl R. Reference Librarian Laurie Lucey has prepared a display of other books on railroads and railroading available for check out: The North American Railroad, by James E. Vance, Jr. The American Heritage History of Railroad in America, by Oliver R. Jensen, The Historical Guide To North American Railroads, Boston Capitalists and Western Railroads, by Arthur M. Johnson and Barry E. Supple, The Railroad that Came Out at Night: a Book of Railroad In and Around Boston, and The Up-Country Line - Boston, Concord & Montreal RR, by Edgar T. Mead.

Looking for Knitting Volunteer

Knitting is experiencing a renewed popularity for all ages, men and women, boys and girls. After hearing of the recent knitting classes held for teens and younger library users, a number of adult users expressed an interest in classes for their age group. We are looking for one or several volunteers who might be willing to work with the staff in organizing such a program. Please contact Linda Callahan, Reference Librarian, at 978-694-2099 to discuss the details.

the Conservation Commission, you also lose your right to appeal to the Department of Environmental Protection."

Ugolini argued that the current appeal process provides hope in the event that a case was denied at the local level due to misunderstanding of the law by the Conservation Commission or due to a poorly presented case. He argued that the only method for appeal under the proposed by-law would be through a costly and time consuming court system.

Currently, such appeals go through the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection.

According to the verbiage of the proposed by-law, "A decision of the Conservation Commission shall be reviewable in the Superior Court."

According to McGowan, two permits would be issued, under the proposed by-law, and residents would have the opportunity to appeal the permit issued under the state act.

"If there are conditions specifically done under the by-law, yes, those would have to go to court," McGowan said, "but the commission, from what I've seen is fairly reasonable about things and you could certainly come back and ask that some conditions be modified and they would consider your request."

All other Town Meeting articles were reviewed without significant discussion.

Article 1 will ratify the results of the April Town Election and Article 2 calls for reports of Committees, of which there are none.

Article 3 is placed on the warrant every year as a precaution. It seeks to raise and appropriate funds to pay outstanding bills from previous years.

Article 4 is also on the warrant each and every year. It seeks to authorize the Treasurer/Collector, with approval from the Selectmen, to enter into agreement with banks doing business in Massachusetts on behalf of the town and for the Town to maintain funds with those institutions.

Article 5 seeks to appropriate money for the Town budget.

Article 6 seeks to appropriate funds for the purchase of capital equipment, including 4 replacement police cruisers.

Article 7 seeks to appropriate funds for the clean-up of contaminated soils at the Town's former firing range located on Abigail's Island.

Article 8 seeks to appropriate funds for the purpose of developing a detailed GIS mapping of the storm drainage system as the first phase for developing a "master plan" for the town's water drainage system.

Article 9 seeks a transfer of funds to cover interdepartmental transfers.

Approval of Article 10 would appropriate funds sufficient for providing work opportunities, benefiting the Town, to senior citizens in accordance with the Town's Senior Citizen Tax Work-Off Program.

Article 11 seeks to appropriate funds for the Town's observance of Memorial Day and Veteran's Day.

Article 12 seeks a total appropriation of $2,250 for the purpose of providing suitable headquarters for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Marine Corp League, and American Legion.

Article 13 seeks to designate the Wilmington Skate Park located at the Shawsheen School as a lasting memorial to Justin A. O'Neil by naming the park in his honor.

Article 14 seeks the authorization for revolving accounts to cover the costs associated with the various boards, commissions, departments, and agencies of the Town.

Article 15 asks voters to accept as a public way Sachem Circle.

Article 16 seeks to appropriate funds for the Town's continued participation in Massachusetts Water Pollution Abatement Trust, which provides assistance for the costs associated with septic system upgrades and repairs.

Article 17 seeks to authorize the Town's continued participation in the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority financial assistance program.

Article 19 proposes to amend the Zoning by-law in regard to the allowance of hammerhead lots.

Article 20 seeks to authorize accessory apartments within newly constructed homes.

Articles 21, 22, and 23 are simple housekeeping articles intended to clean up language within the Town's Zoning By-laws.

Article 24 seeks the transfer of care, custody, and control of certain parcels of land from the Town to the Conservation Commission.

Article 25 seeks the transfer of care, custody, and control of a specific parcel of land abutting the Town Forest from the Town to the Conservation Commission.

Article 26 seeks to authorize the Town to apply for grant money to assist in the construction of a new library. Board of Library Trustees Chairman Joan Brady spoke to remind residents that this article would not authorize spending of funds in any way.

Article 27 seeks to designate the new Wilmington High School track a lasting tribute to Francis P. Kelley by naming it in his honor.

Article 28 and 29 seek to allow the test results of Darryl Sencabaugh and Thomas Taylor, respectively, notwithstanding age restrictions, to be considered for employment with the Wilmington Fire Department.

Article 30 seeks authorization for a resident to purchase Town-owned land in the area of Shawsheen Avenue and Blanchard Road.

Article 31 seeks authorization for a resident to purchase Town-owned land in the area of Border Avenue.

Article 32 seeks a rezoning of land in the area of Charles River Avenue from R60 to R20 for the purpose of building a single family dwelling.

Mushers regularly "drop" dogs throughout the race. Dropping a dog means removing him from the rest of the team at a checkpoint. A musher may start the race with as many as 16 dogs and must finish the race with no fewer than 5.

Dogs are dropped for various reasons, but most commonly for simple fatigue.

Dogs dropped between checkpoints get to ride in the sled until the next checkpoint.

The dogs undergo extensive examinations prior to the start of the race and are micro-chipped so that they cannot be replaced.

"Just like any top-level athlete, the dogs urine is checked at the beginning of the race and then again at the end," Hahn said. "It really is amazing how much medical attention these animals get before, during and, after the race. The mushers, on the other hand, are pretty much on their own."

Hahn recalled one veteran musher in particular that had had a finger amputated due to injury just days before the race.

"All of the questions surrounded whether he would be able to take care of his dogs during the race, not whether his hand was okay," Hahn said.

Rick Swensen, veteran of 29 Iditarods, winner of several, recently scratched from the race because he felt his dogs were coming down with a virus.

As Town Crier readers know, Hahn was not the only Wilmington resident at the Iditarod; Woburn Street School teacher Lynne Gordon is this year's official Iditarod Teacher on the Trail.

"I've been taking care of Lynne's animals for years and as soon as I won the bid I let her know that I would be in Alaska too," Hahn said.

They ran into each other a couple of times in the lobby of the hotel and at a banquet, but both had busy schedules to follow.

Hahn is home now; back to the normalcy of his practice at Wilmington Veterinary Hospital on Burlington Avenue.

He hasn't completely left Iditarod, though. He continues to track Morderow and Gordon through the internet updates.

He had a great time - there is little doubt of that when speaking with him. Would he go back next year? Perhaps as a volunteer veterinarian? He hesitates in answering the question, but it seems unlikely.

"Sometimes when you do something once and the experience manages to far exceed your expectations, its best to leave it at that," Hahn said.

Heroin bust on Shady Lane

ed by Interstate 93, coupled with the quiet small-town feel of the town, makes Wilmington an attractive location to do business. Local and federal authorities are working hard to remove that allure.

Following a phone call, the dealer and buyer will generally meet in a public location. The dealer will then lead the buyer down a series of quiet neighborhood side-streets. Once he is convinced that they are not being followed, the transaction takes place.

Steele's recent arrest was the result of a two month joint investigation between federal DEA agents and Wilmington Police through the Cross Borders Initiative (CBI). DEA operatives successfully infiltrated the group originally discovered by Stickney and lured Steele to Wilmington with a phone call.

As agents converged on Steele's vehicle, he locked the car doors and began swallowing the bags of heroin for later retrieval. It was a futile effort, however, since he had just sold heroin to an undercover agent. Police broke the car windows and helped him out of the vehicle.

Heroin has become a major problem in Wilmington and the entire region.

"There has been a huge increase in heroin use throughout the area," Bossi said, "especially among young people between the ages of seventeen and twenty."

The alarming rise in the use of heroin is directly related to the popularity of OxyContin. The two drugs deliver a nearly identical high, but there is at least one significant difference: cost.

A single 80-milligram tablet of OxyContin carries a street value of approximately $80. That same $80 can generally be used to purchase a whole gram of heroin, which would keep most addicts satisfied for a week. A single bag of heroin, good for one fix, can often be purchased for as little as $5.

As the addiction to OxyContin grows, the costs become prohibitive and an eventual switch to heroin becomes nearly inevitable. The heroin, in the initial stages of use, is seldom delivered to the body by way of injection, but that progression also becomes nearly inevitable as the body becomes accustomed to the drug. Soon, shooting directly into a vein is the only way to achieve a satisfactory high.

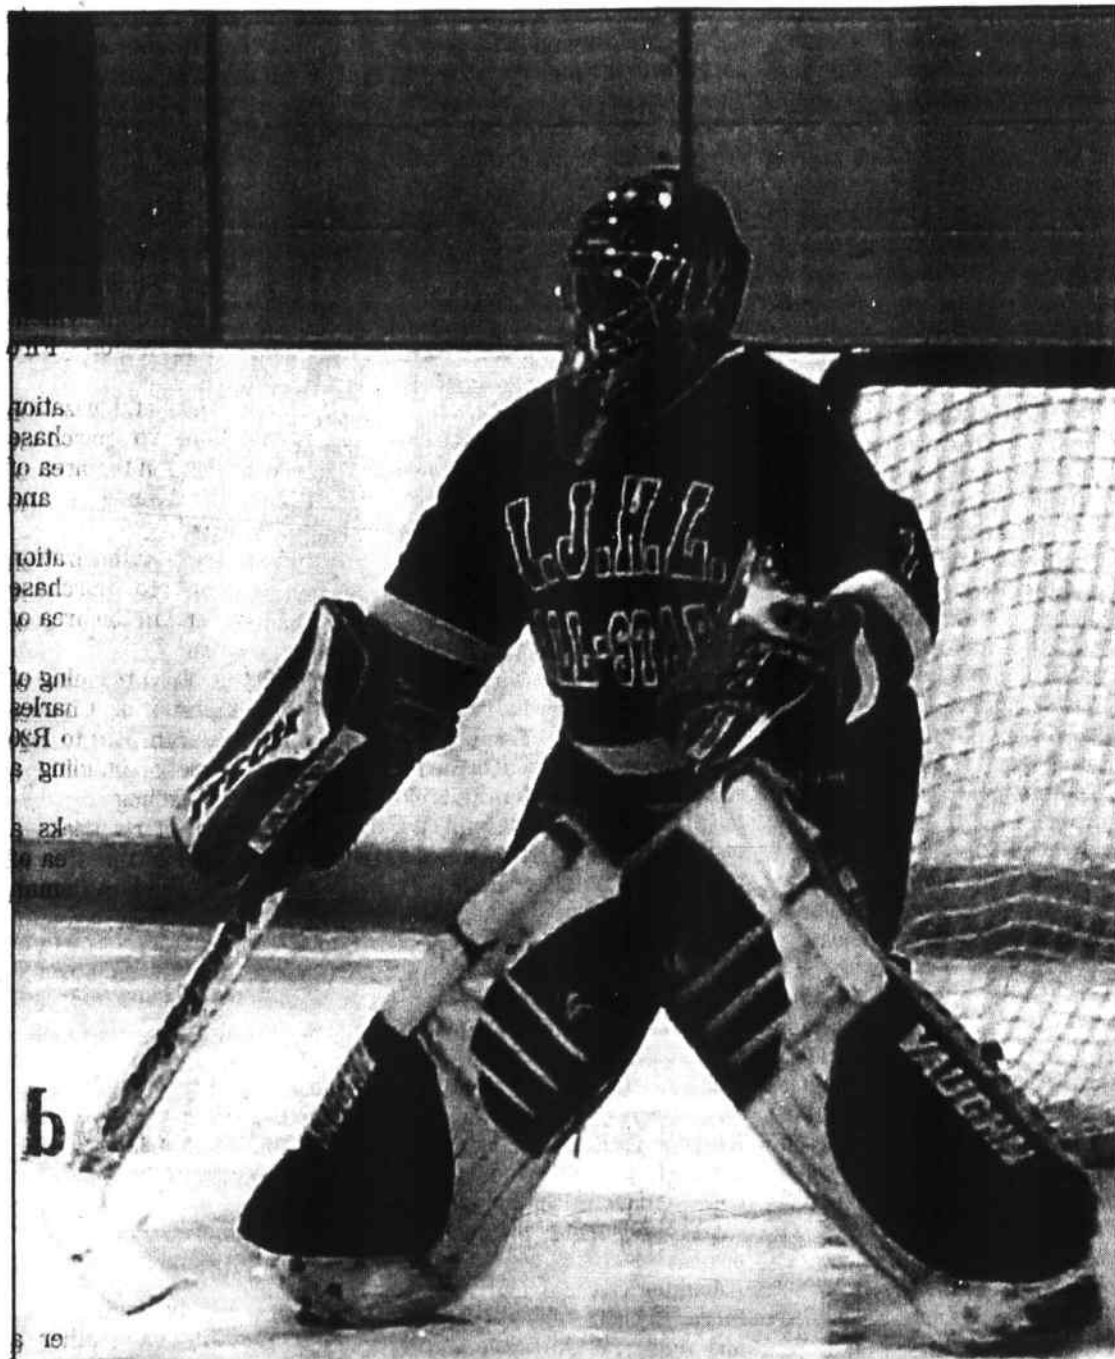

"These kids start with OxyContin, because it comes in pill-form," Bossi said. "They don't see a pill as 'dirty' the way they would needles."

According to Wilmington Police, the rash of recent housebreaks in Wilmington and the surrounding towns is a direct result of heroin use.

The number of heroin users currently living in Wilmington would likely shock the average resident. Bossi was not comfortable committing to a specific estimate, but he considered it fair to speculate that between 200 and 500 people living in Wilmington currently use.

Bossi asks residents to be alert to suspicious activity. "When we arrested Steele, a resident came out of his house and said that Steele's car had been coming into his neighborhood nearly every day," Bossi said. "The car came around everyday, somebody would lean into the car and then they'd both leave."

Residents witnessing such activity are urged to report it to Wilmington Police.

Smith packs hockey bag for Minnesota

After a long season of hard work, Wilmington's Dean Smith is heading for the Junior Hockey League Nationals in Minnesota.

After playing two years of varsity hockey at Austin Prep in Reading, Dean chose to make the move to Junior Hockey in his senior year.

Last year, after only playing one year for the Boston Junior Blackhawks, Dean completed his season as one of the top three goaltenders in the Interstate Junior hockey League (IJHL).

He has proven himself by achieving a 92.16 winning percent with 8 shutouts.

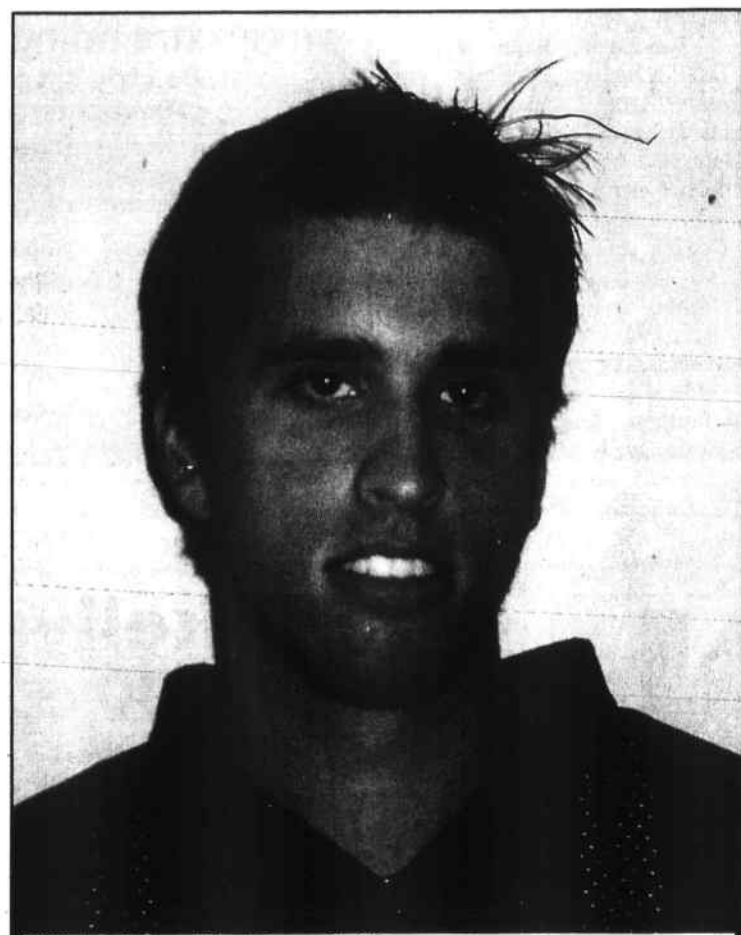

Hockey Night in Boston News said, "Dean Smith has been a defensive rock in the Blackhawks' cage, stopping nearly everything fired his way".

He also was ranked in Junior Hockey Magazine as the Best Goaltender for the 2004-2005 season. He was also chosen to compete in the National Jr. B All Star Showcase in Syracuse, NY this past January.

Blackhawks' Coach, Richie Salzman, says that Dean concentrates and plays hard and in my professional opinion can play college hockey immediately.

The Blackhawks finished their regular season with a 27-3-4 record to finish in first place locking in their spot at the Nationals. Although Dean has plans to return to his hometown teams for next year, his plans are still undecided.

been scouted by many college coaches and has been invited to tryout for some Junior A hockey teams for next year, his plans are still undecided.

We wish Dean and the Boston Junior Blackhawks success in Minnesota.

Rappoli, Stonehill drop game to Bridgeport

Fort Myers, Fla.- The Stonehill softball team continued play at the Gene Cusic Classic last Tuesday morning by dropping a 10-5 non-league decision to Bridgeport at Cape Coral Field.

The Chieftains' second scheduled contest of the day against Holy Family was postponed due to rain and has not yet been re-scheduled.

Junior Sarah Mantor (Fresno, Calif.) went 2 for 2 and drove in four runs including a homer, for the victorious Purple Knights (2-3), who overcame an early 3-0 deficit to forge a 3-3 tie through three innings of play.

Stonehill (1-4) took a 4-3 lead in the fourth when sophomore Tracey Cidlevich (Milton, Mass.) stole home on a double steal, but Bridgeport took the lead for good in the bottom of the frame with four runs, highlighted by Mantor's three-run homer.

The Chieftains had grabbed a 3-0 lead in their first at-bat on an RBI single by senior Kate McAuley (Franklin, Mass.) and a sacrifice fly by junior Christine Grenache (Leominster, Mass.) and Stonehill collected its fifth run of the contest in the fifth on freshman Jamie Ippolito's (Chelsea, Mass.) first career home run.

Ippolito collected two of the Chieftain's five hits on the day as Cidlevich allowed seven hits and only four earned runs while fanning five in taking the setback on the mound for Stonehill.

Juniors Suzanne Parr (Juneau, Ak.) and Jacquie McCaw (Loveland, Colo.) each drove in a pair of runs in the win for Bridgeport, as sophomore Samantha Mantor (Fresno, Calif.) allowed just five hits and a pair of earned runs in picking up the win on the mound for the Purple Knights.

Wilmington resident Lauren Rappoli is a member of this year's Stonehill women's softball team.

Stonehill resumes play at the Gene Cusic Classic on Thursday afternoon by taking on St. Joseph's (Ind.) at 1:00 pm and Cornerstone at 3:00 pm in a pair of non-league contests at Cape Coral Field.

Big lead helps Mite A's come home with a victory

The Wilmington Mite A's had a tough game on Saturday afternoon against Lynnfield. The first period ended with Wilmington in a 5 to 1 lead. Goals were scored by Cody McGowan, Chris Satori, and Mark Albano and assisted by Kevin Cummings and Tommy Thompson.

In the second period the game started to turn in favor of Lynnfield as they came back with 3 goals of their own. Cody McGowan kept the fire going for Wilmington by scoring another goal bringing the second period to an end with a 6 to 4 lead.

Lynnfield came into the third with two more goals tying the game at 6, but they were no match for the Wilmington Cats who would not give up. The winning goal was scored when John Galasso assisted by Rich Greenberg came through in the last 14 seconds of the third.

Jimmy Davey was outstanding between the pipes with the defensive help from Justin DeNorscia, Chris Satori, Shane Brennan, and Kevin Cummings.

Congratulations Wildcats on a game well played.

The Mite A's played an unbelievable game against a strong and first place Marblehead team on Sunday.

Our boys started out strong with a quick goal in the first few minutes of the game by Tommy Thompson. The quick skating by Marblehead soon caught up to our boys which made the end of the first period a close 2 to 1 with Marblehead in the lead.

The second period saw a now awake Wilmington team skating well together and brought the second goal in by Rich Greenberg who could not have done it without the help of his defensive teammates: Shane Brennan and Kevin Cummings. The offense played a great game with some great passing by Chris Satori and Joe Castellano.

Marblehead kept on coming scoring two more goals only to be schooled by a great assist by Joe Castellano to Zach Malatesta making the score 4 to 3.

Wilmington kept the pressure with great skating by James Hill, Mark Albano and Johnny Galasso with the help of their defense by Zach Malatesta and Justin Denorscia. Cody McGowan and Mark Albano skated like the wind with some great back checking which resulted in Wilmington's final goal of the game scored by Mark Albano only to see Marblehead come back with a final score a respectable Marblehead 5, Wilmington 4. Once again the quick handed and fancy footwork of our goalie the incredible Jimmy Davey kept our boys in the game.

The Marblehead bench exploded which I can only assume was the rejoicing by their coaches at keeping their first place status. We'll get them next time !!

Pec Wee II's

With the end of the season approaching, the Wilmington Peeewe II squad continues to impress and remain on top of the Valley League with an 11-1-3 record. The latest tilt found them up against a big and physical Medford II team and the team again would not disappoint. In what very well could have been the most perfect effort of the year, the Cats came away with a resounding 5-1 victory, giving Medford, in second place, no chance to move closer in the standings.

Since Medford had given them their only loss this season, Wilmington knew they would have to come out strong and take the game to their opponent. Doing just that, the Cats came out flying and hitting sending a strong message that they had indeed come to play on this day. The body contact was clean and hard as Brian Fitzpatrick, Jimmy Mullen and Brian Good would all step up and punish Medford time and again during any forays into the offensive zone.

With the tone set, and Medford looking over their shoulders every time they touched the puck, the offense would get their attack going late in the period. Mark Flanagan would get the Cats on the board first off some hard work by Sean Keane in the corner. Twenty seconds later, Jimmy Stokes would bang home a Denis Gingras rebound for a hard earned two goal advantage going into the second frame.

In the second it was more of the same. With their forwards keeping up the torrid pace in the offensive zone, Bret Kidik would find a loose puck off a scramble at the doorstep to bang home goal number 3 with Scott Deronde getting the assist. At the five minute mark, Peter Leighton would put the Cats up by four with the help of David Sugrue and Gingras. With Medford trying desperately to mount some offense, Joe Aucoin came up with several nice stops late in the period.

With just 33 seconds left in the stanza, Gingras would put the game out of reach with a wrist shot that found the five hole and 5-0 lead going into the third.

The third period would not see any letdown from the Wildcats as they continued to pound Medford and completely dominate the rest of the way.

Medford would break the shutout but could muster only that one goal, foiling Aucoin's shutout bid. Wilmington was firing on every cylinder this night and came through with one of the most impressive wins of the season. The Wildcats remain poised to finish out the regular season atop the standings and could be setting themselves up for what should be a very successful post-season.

Fifth grade girls take first in tournament

Over the February school vacation week, the 14-0 Wilmington Wildcats 5th grade girls' basketball team took a break from its River Valley League season to participate in the 8th annual Acton-Boxborough Invitational.

In the opener, Wilmington grabbed a quick 2-0 lead versus Westford as Meaghan Stinson converted a lay-up after receiving a well-placed pass from Jennifer Stewart off the opening tap from Maggie Brown.

Wilmington applied the pressure early with an immediate full-court press that led to several more quick baskets by the relentless Wildcats.

Lisa Hitchins came up with a steal and added a hoop during the run as the Wildcats raced out to a 10-0 lead before Westford countered with its first hoop. Casey Browne added another hoop for good measure to pace the Wildcats.

Meaghan Stinson provided the outside offense, including a 3-pointer, and Jennifer Stewart provided the inside scoring punch as they led all scorers with 9 and 10 points respectively at the half.

Tenacious man-to-man defense has been the key to this team's success all year and the second half of this game was no different. The stingy Wildcat defense took the floor with a 28-6 lead.

The defensive charge was led by Christina Wilson and Emily Crannel who put constant pressure on the Westford ball handlers.

Under the basket, Alexa Brown was outstanding on help-side defense and Maggie Brown continuously turned back the Westford offense with four of her nine blocks of the contest. Maggie led the charge on offense too with six second half points.

Caitlin McDonough chipped in with a basket and great rebounding and Kristin Ingala scored on an explosive drive to the hoop for a lay-up to lead the Wildcats to a strong 44-10 victory. Meaghan (13), Jennifer (12) and Maggie (11) led all scorers as seven players posted points for the Wildcats.

Wilmington vs Milford
The Wildcats got off to a slow start against this strong team who entered the Invitational as one of the top teams from the Metro West. The scrappy defensive effort of Milford and the confines of the Acton-Boxboro fieldhouse proved troublesome for the usually high scoring Wildcats. Despite several shots from inside and outside, it was Milford who scored first to take a 2-0 lead. Wilmington and Milford battled back and forth with Maggie Brown pacing the offense with a few big put backs to stake the Wildcats to an 8-7 lead. From there the defense dug in and shut down the Milford offense for the rest of the half with great guard play by Christina Wilson, Lisa Hitchins, Casey Browne, Emily Crannel and Meaghan Stinson. Inside Jennifer Stewart, Maggie Brown, Alexa Brown, Caitlin McDonough and Emily Shuh dominated the boards and kept the Milford offense at bay. While the defense was hard at work, Maggie added another 6 points and Caitlin McDonough added a basket to send Wilmington to the half-time break with a 17-7 lead.

Milford began the second half re-energized and came after the Wildcats with a relentless press that led to a few baskets for the Metro West powerhouse. Christina Wilson and Emily Crannel countered with several steals of their own as the game took on an up-tempo punch and counter-punch style of play. The Wildcat offense awoke from its slow start as Meaghan Stinson tossed in a pair of 3's on her way to 10 second half points. Jennifer Stewart added 6 transition points and Maggie Browne added another 5 to her game high 19 points, as Wilmington overpowered the Milford club's pressure defense enroute to a 40-20 win to earn the team a berth in the finals against undefeated Acton.

The championship game between the best of the Metro West and the River Valley League took on an added edge of anticipation as the two teams met for the second time in two days. In a preliminary round game on Saturday, Wilmington ran into a buzz-saw as the A-B Colonials used a tenacious pressing defense and a foul-depleted Wilmington line-up to turn a low scoring half-time tie into a sizable 30-15 victory for the host team.

On Sunday the Wilmington Wildcats went head-to-head with the Colonels one more time in the Championship Game. Early on it appeared that A-B had the upper hand again as it jumped out to an 8-4 lead in a battle of up-tempo basketball. After a quick time out, the Wildcats modified their press break to leverage the size and ball handling ability of Maggie Browne. Caitlin McDonough and Jennifer Stewart to overcome the suffocating inbound doubling of the ball by the talented guards of the A-B Colonels. With the armour cracked, the Wildcat half-court offense kicked into gear as Meaghan Stinson received the ball in transition and worked the ball off some well-placed screens to feed the ball inside to Maggie Brown and Jennifer Stewart down low for some inside buckets.

Energized by a surge into the lead, the Wildcats dropped into their seldom-used 2-1-2 and 3-2 zone defenses and neutralized the dribble penetration attempts of the aggressive A-B offense. The perimeter defense of Lisa Hitchins, Christina Wilson, Meaghan Stinson, Caitlin McDonough, Kristin Ingala and Casey Browne took turns providing strong ball-side pressure, and quickly closing off any gaps to A-B's quick guards. The game remained tight as the teams entered half-time with Wilmington sporting a 15-10 lead.

In the second half, Wilmington's zone forced Acton-Boxborough to slow their tempo and attempt to beat the bigger Wildcats team in a half-court battle at both ends of the floor. While the A-B squad occasionally managed to crack the Wilmington defense with some aggressive baseline attacks, it was unable to find much room for its offense and was limited to 11 second-half points by the outstanding team defense of the Wildcats. A-B fought desperately to create the turnovers and easy transition points that worked so well the previous day, but the Wildcats press break used its size and passing ability to find the fleet-footed Jennifer Stewart, who converted the passes for 8 second-half points. The Wilmington backcourt led by Meaghan Stinson, Lisa Hitchins, Emily Crannel and Casey Browne kept pounding the ball in as Maggie

Brown (12) and Alexa Brown (2) overpowered the inside defense of the Colonels for 14 second-half points to pace the Wildcats to a 35-21 win to take the championship game.

Congregational Church undergoes extensive restoration

WILMINGTON - The Congregational Church will have the opportunity to show case its recent restorations as the host of Wilmington's upcoming Community Wide Ecumenical Good Friday Services.

Located on Middlesex Avenue across from wild-wood Cemetery and built in 1865, the Congregational Church is, by far, Wilmington's oldest religious building. According to Reverend Miles Hall, the building has not seen such a restoration for nearly a hundred years. The ceiling was repaired approximately 30 years ago and the exterior was refurbished about four years ago, but the recent work has been far more extensive.

"This has been a complete overhaul of the sanctuary," Hall said.

The decorative tin ceiling was stripped and repainted and the interior walls were completely re-done right down to the blueboard. The interior shutters were repainted and re-hung. The floors, which are the original 1865 floorboards, were painted and the pews are currently undergoing refurbishing.

"This is still a work in progress," Hall said.

Most of the work was done in about a month's time. Parishioners were so impressed with the sparkling white paint that every one of them wore sunglasses during the first service back.

"They even gave me a pair of 'Elvis glasses,'" Hall says.

The Congregational Church was the first church of Wilmington and actually had a hand in the town's ability to incorporate.

During the 1700's, a township needed a meetinghouse for religious services and a "settled" pastor to administer those services in order to be eligible for incorporation.

"In the 1700's, Congregational Churches were pretty much the order of the day," hall said.

The Congregational Church and Reverend Miles Hall would like to extend a very warm welcome to everyone to join them for Good Friday Services

"Lt. Brown was advancing a hose line over the ladder," Wilmington Fire Chief Daniel Stewart said. "Due to icy conditions, he lost his footing and fell from the ladder approximately 20 feet."

Other fire fighters removed Brown from the danger area and he was then transported by ambulance to Lahey Clinic. He was released later the same day.

"We all wish him well in his recovery and will look forward to seeing him back in action very soon," Stewart said.

No civilians were injured.

Training our school systems

Bullying, Harassment & Hazing

By PAUL FEELY

Many local school systems throughout the Middlesex East region recently took part in a training session run by Middlesex District Attorney Martha Coakley's office and Middlesex Partnerships for Youth, Inc., entitled, "Building More Respectful Learning Communities: Proactive Approaches to Bullying, Harassment, and Hazing in Middle and High Schools."

Numerous surveys indicate that bullying, harassment, and hazing activities continue to significantly impact middle and high schools. Thirty-three percent of youth in grades 5-12 are bullied at least once per month, with females targeting mostly females and males targeting both males and females; 80% of boys and girls in grades 8-11 have personally experienced some type of sexual harassment - 35% in grade 6 or earlier; and 48% of students in grades 9-12 who belong to peer groups report being subjected to hazing activities.

The extensive existence of these behaviors and their impact on the learning environment provide the rationale for this workshop. Participants will examine the dynamics and impact of a school culture in which bullying, harassment and hazing are tolerated. Assessment and prevention strategies designed to augment current response policies and procedures will be discussed, along with state and federal laws and regulations, including those mandated by No Child Left Behind. Participants will also explore the concept of shared leadership as they develop action plans that are designed to facilitate more respectful school communities.

"Kids spend such a large portion of their time in the school environment, and we now that there is a strong correlation between a comfortable school climate and the success rates of students who

Director of the Anti-Defamation League New England Region, and founder of Models of Respecting Everyone (MORE), a social learning program designed with the support of the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association to help transform the current operational "norm" in schools from reactive to proactive, and to empower today's youth with a shared commitment to respectful values and practices.

According to published literature on the issue, MORE is founded on the core beliefs that:

•Everyone is entitled to be treated respectfully. No one has to earn the right.

•We learn how to respect each other in our homes, schools, communities and workplaces.

•A "good" education provides as much learning about how to respect each other as it does about any other subject.

•Learning how to respect each other is an ongoing process which never ends. Practice makes better, not perfect.

•With a team of diverse professionals who have been practicing in their fields of expertise for many years, MORE™ will:

•Assess the changing needs of a corporate or school culture.

•Identify the most effective plan of action to facilitate the organizational change.

•Provide members of the

The workshop was led by Phil Fogelman, Education corporate or school community with the knowledge, skills and strategies to individually and collectively advance the plan of action.

Models Of Respecting Everyone at School, a portion of Fogelman's program devoted specifically to issues in schools, is designed to provide administrators, teachers, students, parents and caregivers with the knowledge, skills and strategies to:

•Recognize the personal and institutional factors in their school's culture that may lead to sexual harassment.

•Identify the different types of physical and non-physical sexual harassment behaviors and their impact on the target and other members of the school community.

•Examine state and federal laws and regulations on sexual harassment and hazing, including CORI requirements, and the legal implications for individuals and educational institutions.

•Develop reporting and investigation protocols along with proactive anti-sexual harassment assessment and risk management strategies.

In a headline study on hazing conducted by Alfred University and published in 2000, Initiation Rites and Athletics and Initiation Rites in American High Schools, of the 91% of 16-18 year-old students who reported that they belonged to at least one peer group, 48% also reported being subjected to hazing activities. Of those subjected to hazing activities, 43% experienced humiliating behaviors that are consistent with sexual harassment.

Nearly all of the surveyed students felt that hazing was wrong, and 35% also felt that hazing is socially acceptable, while 24% revealed that they were first hazed before they were teenagers.

Of those students who participated in hazing activities, 31% know an adult who was hazed, and 63% would not report having been hazed primarily because "there's no one to tell" or because "adults won't handle it right".

The impact on those who were hazed included feelings of anger, embarrassment, confusion, guilt and regret. Hazed individuals also experienced a

Yoga East: realization of a woman's vision

by Patricia Brennan
"Welcome beautiful Goddess" were the first words that Monica heard when she was awakened by the gentle touch of an Indian Yogi back in 1973. All she knew upon awakening from a seemingly involuntary slumber was that she felt alive, joyful and at peace for the first time in her 28 year old life. At that moment Monica was at a yoga retreat in the Catskills in upstate New York. Prior to this time, Monica had been an Art History major at Syracuse University and was introduced to the Eastern philosophy including Yoga and Buddhism. She had been athletic since early childhood. Recently back in the U.S. after spending one year in Europe and North Africa, she had just begun to seek a newness in her life, mostly concentrating on making connections in her newly adopted city of Boston. And now something that Monica would later identify as her first spiritual awakening had occurred quite unexpectedly on a warm Spring day, with a gentle touch and the sound of words that would redirect her life.

Monica Osztreicher Veneziano was born in England in 1945, the daughter of a Czechoslovakian pharmaceutical doctor and a British/Russian nurse mother. Her father Denes Osztreicher was a handsome athletic man who had fled the terror of Hitler while other family members were taken into Nazi concentration camps. While working in the underground, he fled to Britain where he worked as a day laborer rather than as the scientist which he was at Charles University in Prague. What a thrill it was when he glanced over a fence and noticed Anna, a beautiful dark haired nurse. The blending of disparate cultures, a theme in Monica's life even before she was born had begun. Her parents, each unable to speak the other's language, linked their lives and eventually produced a family of two children.

It may be that Monica was born with a natural predilection for both art and science, an earth bound inclination for the embracing of potential opposites. Her early interest in both art and medicine germinated in Cleveland, Ohio where she and her parents went to live with her uncle, a successful cardiologist. They lived quite near to both the Cleveland Museum of Fine Arts and the medical college. As a young adult, she attended Case Western Reserve University, worked as a technician in Radiation Biology, and met her husband, an international student from Italy. In time they moved to Syracuse University where she studied art history and oriental philosophy. Monica's early interest in art and science led to her work as a graphic artist at the Upstate Medical Center.

This blending of art and science came into full bloom with her move to Boston in 1973. She vividly remembers her first drive down Commonwealth Avenue in the Back Bay, looking with incredulous eyes at the brick townhouses, the sculptured wrought iron and the magnificent magnolias in blossom. She fell in love. Here was the place where she would find innovative ways to heed a deepening call toward art, medicine and yoga.

Over the course of the next 20 years Monica became a textile/fabric artist and an art historian teaching for 9 years at the Massachusetts College of Art. She also gave birth to two delightful sons, Sasha (a graduate of Film at Emerson College and now working in Los Angeles as an aspiring film maker) and Peter (a graduate of Fairfield University and working as a Lead Mental Health Counselor at the Beverly Hospitals). She developed her administrative skills at a variety of positions at M.I.T., WGBH and other well known corporations.

But always in the background was yoga and her increasing interest in behavioral medicine.

Behavioral Medicine had just begun to receive national attention in 1984 when Monica began teaching yoga and meditation to nurses and social workers at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute in Boston. Soon after making an audio cassette tape for patients and staff (Relaxation Techniques for Health), she was introduced by an oncologist to two key figures in Behavioral Medicine, Drs. Herbert Benson and Joan Borysenko, the founders of the Mind/Body Clinic, initially located at the Beth Israel Hospital. Dr. Benson pioneered the field of Behavioral Medicine with his book, The Relaxation Response, while Dr. Borysenko, author of Minding the Body, Mending the Mind, is a forerunner in the field of psychoneuroimmunology.

In the exciting atmosphere of this newly evolving field of psychoneuroimmunology, Monica learned about scientific data that verified the undeniable relationship between chronic diseases which afflict the body and the biochemistry of the brain. Through a seemingly chance meeting with the coordinator of the Albert Einstein School of Psychiatry summer program, Monica began her studies at their Cape Cod Institute of Psychiatry.

Despite the allure of behavioral medicine, the call of yoga continued to sound its lyrical notes for Monica. For many years she had been especially attracted to Iyengar Yoga, because it develops the will power and challenges the intel-

North Reading artists, Fran Nola and Cheryl Wamer Foley with Diane Sawler McLaughlin of Saugus and Christine Riccardi of Melrose are having their first exhibit together at the Artist Shoppe and Gallerie, 281 Main Street, Reading, MA.

On view at the exhibition will be New England & Italian landscapes, toy still lifes and florals. These paintings are rendered in oil, watercolor, acrylic, colored pencil, gouache, pastel and photography.

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

LOOKING UP AND ALL AROUND

Sounds like a plan: Reading

"The Selectmen reviewed a proposed signaling plan for a proposed General Way presented by Favaloro & Associates," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The plan calls for a number of changes to the flow of traffic."

"The plan would provide a four lane section on Walkers Brook Drive east of General Way with the southernmost lane becoming an extension of the northbound exit lane from General Way. The northbound side of General Way would become a single lane. The town engineer will approve the final plans before construction is started. The developer will pay for the cost of the signal design review. The plan calls for construction on the intersection and signal to be completed by June 30, 2005 or when the first 50,000 square feet of space is occupied, whichever date comes first."

"All truck traffic coming from Main Street or the west, will enter the site from the Goodall-Sanford Road access. Truck traffic coming from the east, including Route 128, will be directed to use the General Way access from Walkers Brook Drive. The plan calls for the applicant to fund the cost for a full service access road to New Crossing Road when either of the abutting properties to the east is developed. Possible cooperative efforts between the applicant, Town and other parties may include the donation of land and the development of plans to produce alternate access connecting Walkers Brook Drive with Main Street."

"Neighbors raised concerns that increased traffic would create a problem for residents in that area entering and exiting their driveways. In addition, residents also brought up issues of increased noise and encroachment of their property."

"After reviewing plans and listening to comments from the public, the Selectmen approved the plan 5-0."

Seeing stars: Tewksbury

"The town's astronomical observatory, now undergoing construction, will be named after Paul Manning, the man responsible for making its existence a reality," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"The announcement was made during the School Committee's meeting, at which Manning was expected simply to provide the committee with an update on the observatory's progress."

"We got you here under false pretenses," said Dr. Christine McGrath, Superintendent of Schools, during Manning's presentation to the committee."

"Manning is the creator of Tewksbury's Air & Space Day, the event held at Livingston Street Park each year. As recently as September, Manning presented $10,000 worth of brand new astronomy equipment purchased from proceeds of Air & Space Day. At that time, Manning also gifted $2,000 in seed money toward the construction of a permanent observatory with a roll top roof."

"School Committee Chairman Scott Consaul commended Manning on his tireless efforts to benefit the community and educate its children."

"You've brought us the Space Lab Planetarium Show and Manned Space Flights," Consaul said. "You are the creator of Space Day and you've brought historical figures into our schools. You've donated high-powered telescopes and now, because of your efforts, we are going to construct an astronomical observatory."

"School Committee member Joseph Russell offered a motion to name the observatory the Paul D. Manning Astronomical Observatory."

"This is just a small token of our appreciation," Russell told Manning.

"The motion carried unanimously and Manning was presented with a statuette of a group of children reaching up over their heads toward the sky...."

Movie Reviews

"BLACK CLOUD"

by Paul Feely

MOVIE:
"BLACK CLOUD"
GRADE: ***

Age-old clichés and time-honored sentimentality fall away in actor Rick Schroder's exceptionally impressive writing and directing debut, "Black Cloud," the story of a young Native American and his determined quest to find peace and redemption through boxing.

Up-and-comer Eddie Spears stars as Black Cloud, a Navajo youth struggling to cope with the mixed-up feelings of reservation life. When his emotions are channeled into the boxing ring, he's unbeatable. When his frustrations are released elsewhere, he invariably gets himself into trouble. For Black Cloud's mentor and father figure, Bud (Russell Means), the greatest challenge isn't so much teaching the boy how to fight others, but to stop fighting himself. Indeed, Black Cloud often doesn't seem to appreciate the best things in his life, particularly the devotion of long-suffering girlfriend Sammi (Julia Jones), a single mother whose previous relationship with a hell-raising rodeo cowboy (Schroder) proves to be a much greater stumbling block for Black Cloud than for her. It's only after an Olympic scout (Peter Greene) offers him a chance at making the U.S. Olympic team that he's forced to finally take stock of his life and confront his demons.

It's a risk when a story is framed around the sport of boxing, because comparisons to both "Rocky" and "Raging Bull" become inevitable, and rarely turn out favorably for the contenders. But Schroder's film more than holds its own, its dazzling, gut-wrenching fight sequences contrasted with an earnest, sensitively-acted drama. This is a passion project for Schroder - a personal, heartfelt ode to the human spirit and its infinite capacity to triumph against seemingly insurmountable odds. Even jaded sports film snobs are likely to find this effort both richly rewarding and profoundly inspirational.

MOVIE:
"BE COOL"
GRADE: **

John Travolta tries to end

his string of recent big screen flops by resurrecting one of the better characters he has played over his career, but it's just not enough to save the film.

Travolta reprises his role of former Mob shylock Chili Palmer from "Get Shorty", a hit movie adaptation of an Elmore Leonard novel from the early 1990s. This sequel finds Palmer looking to get out of the movie business and into the music industry, which he finds contains even more characters, ranging from former Mob hitmen running record labels to gangsta rap producers kidnapping radio program directors to force them to play their records.

When Palmers friend (played by James Woods) is killed in a hit by the Russian mob, he attempts to run the man's record label with his widow (played by Uma Thurman). Palmer sets out to get a contract for an up and coming young singing sensation, played by Christina Milian, but first he must get her contract from the promoters she currently toils for, another former Mob

SPORTS SHORTS

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA
Which team was the first to compete in three National Football League Super Bowls? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•READING'S TIM BRYANT, a senior on the Bentley College baseball team, had a two-run single and later scored on a two-run double while playing as a designated hitter in a recent 16-11 win over St. Thomas Aquinas.

•READING'S STEVE GATH, a sophomore shortstop for the Bentley College baseball team who also hits third in the lineup, was three for five with two doubles and and a white boy who thinks he's a gangsta rappa (think Vanilla Ice with even less street credentials), played by Vince Vaughn.

Vaughn and wrestling hero The Rock (who plays Vaughn's gay bodyguard who really just wants to act) are the best parts about the movie. Local music fans will recognize the Tweeter Center in Mansfield, which substitutes for the Staples Center in Los Angeles during an Aerosmith concert in the movie. If you were sitting near the front of that show last summer, you may see yourself on the big screen.

MOVIE:
"CONSTANTINE"
GRADE: ***

This comic book adaptation works on screen because of the chemistry between its two main stars.

Keanu Reeves stars as John Constantine, a man who can be immersed in the world of the occult and interacts with demons. He committed suicide when he was younger because of his visions, but doctors saved him. Because he was technically dead for two minutes, he will go to hell when he dies because he took his own life, but has spent his days fighting demons in an effort to buy his way back into Heaven.

Rachel Weisz plays a detective whose sister has committed suicide, and comes to Constantine looking for answers. The two discover a plan by Satan's son to enter our world and take things over.

The special effects are very good, and the storyline is easy to follow, despite its pseudo-religious references. But the relationship between the characters played by Reeves and Weisz is believable enough that you feel they really do care for each other, which adds tension to many of the scenes.

Harlow was named Acting Chief of the North Reading Fire Department, succeeding Ed O'Brien," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"O'Brien, who was chief of the department for 11 years, stepped down unexpectedly and has filed for disability retirement due to a heart condition. Harlow has been Officer in Charge of the fire department and the Selectmen stated they wanted an acting chief appointed 'post-haste.'

"Harlow's elevation to acting chief will create a domino effect in the department, especially since the deputy chief's position is also vacant.

"If the deputy chief's position is also filled with an acting appointment, it will leave two captain slots empty that will require acting appointments.

"Harlow said the town is now going through procedures with Civil Service to fill all positions on an acting basis.

"The Deputy Chief's job has been vacant since Nov. 17, when James Brady was suspended for two months without pay and demoted to firefighter by Town Administrator Tom Younger on charges that Brady put himself on the payroll for overtime for which he wasn't entitled.

"Brady maintains there was no wrongdoing on his part and has appealed his demotion to Civil Service.

"Harlow has been a member of the North Reading Fire Department since March 1974 and served as acting captain from November 1974 through December 1977. He became a permanent captain in August, 1981."

14TH ANNUAL "CHRIST'S PASSION"

Rehearsals began back in January and are continuing for the 14th annual production of "Christ's Passion" which will be presented on Thursday, March 24 and Friday March 25 at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary of the First Parish Congregational Church, the stone church on Lake Quannapowitt, Church Street, Wakefield.

"Christ's Passion" director Pamela Weisenbach Abkarian who is a graduate of Salem State's theatrical arts program says, "Christ's Passion" recreates the events of the last two weeks of Jesus' life on earth. It tells of the lessons He came to earth to teach, the plot against Him, the Last Summer, the washing of feet, Judas' betrayal, the arrest, the trial and the cross.

Genuine performances by dedicated actors enhanced by special music, lighting and sound effects are sure to provide an emotional roller coaster ride for all who find their way to the First Parish!

Associate Pastor Dan Ledwith will play the part of a priest this year. This passion play gets right to the core of what the Christian faith is all about.

Admission is free. All are welcome. For more information call 781-245-1539 or www.fpc-wakefield.com.

Disabilities Education Act will be discussed.

Recent proposed attempts to change special ed law were defeated by concerned parents and professionals who viewed the change as challenging their basic parental rights to participate in their children's education.

It is vital that parents know their rights and the rights of their children when it comes to special ed. parents must also know their responsibilities during the special ed process from initial intake to monitoring progress of their child's program.

The speaker is Charles Crowley from the Federation of Children with Special Needs. Those attending will receive the Federation's useful "Parents Guide to Special Education." There will be time for questions from the audience.

Yoga East from S-2

lect. Iyengar Yoga is a precise yoga discipline named for its creator, B.K.S. Iyengar.

During the summer of 1988, Monica embarked on her first trip to India. It was a journey where she finally saw and experienced some of the astounding art and intriguing culture that she had taught at the Massachusetts College of Art in her course Anthropology and Art. Her excitement and love for art and culture overflowed as she traveled to the great centers of Bombay, Ganeshpuri and Poona.

While in Poona, she had the opportunity to study at the B.K.S. Iyengar Institute. This was no easy accomplishment, since when she had written requesting permission to study there, she was told she must be placed on a 2-year waiting list. Undaunted after having conquered her fear of being a woman traveling alone in India, she dropped by the Institute and serendipitously was allowed to stay and study for five weeks with Iyengar. It was during this remarkable Indian adventure that Monica was inspired to open her own yoga center back home.

Despite Monica's entrance with Iyengar Yoga, Mr. Iyengar predicted that someday Monica would teach another form of yoga. In September of 1991, Monica opened the first comprehensive yoga and healing arts center in the north-eastern suburbs. This center, known as Yoga East Center for Alternative Medicine, is located near downtown Wakefield, close to routes 93, 128 and 129.

A few years later Monica received an unexpected phone call from the nephew of Sri K. Pattabhi Jois, famed creator of Ashtanga Yoga (popularly known as power yoga). His nephew Yogacharya Viswanath said, "I want to teach you Ashtanga Yoga." Monica initially refused but he was insistent and she finally took his class at the Woburn Indian Cultural Center. Monica found that this yoga integrated everything she had ever learned about yoga in the last twenty-six years of her studies. Her response was, "It is exquisite!" In May 2005 at Yoga East, the general public can also experience this yoga with Manju Jois, the son of Pattabhi Jois. Yoga East is a large climate-controlled studio that is warm and inviting with soft colors, beautiful plants, paintings and sculpture, tastefully arranged according to Feng-Shui, the ancient Chinese form of balanced architectural design. There is always someone to welcome newcomers making them feel at ease. It is a center for learning about the scientific aspects of alternative medicine and how to develop effective coping strategies to benefit our lives.

Students at Yoga East come from a wide geographic area coming to yoga classes on a weekly basis from as far as Quincy, Methuen, Marblehead, Burlington, Winthrop and all the communities located in between. And the weekend workshops attract people from all over the U.S. Clearly, Monica has brought an exciting educational center to the North Shore that now begins its 14th year. A center that welcomes the curious, the practitioner, the young, old, the healthy and those in need. Yoga East offers possibilities to expand one's knowledge and horizons, and brings new ways to also open the heart and become a part of a community of friends that support, inspire and motivate each other. It is a genuine return to the original mystical teachings of yoga as an ancient practice bringing not only the physical aspects but the philosophical and mythical including the use of the Sanskrit language. Many of the Yoga East students have been attending decline in their physical and psychological health, such as difficulty in eating, sleeping, and concentrating; getting into fights and hurting others; missing school and related activities; and considering suicide.

The study also reveals that all students involved in high school organizations are at risk of being subjected to hazing. Every high school organization, except newspaper and yearbook staffs, had significantly high levels of hazing.

Participating in the session, held at Regis College in Weston, were over 60 school staff members from area communities, including many from the following Middlesex East communities: Burlington, Stoneham, Wilmington, and Woburn.

Once a month Middlesex East will publish a profile of a child that is looking for a home.

Meet Tiffany

Tiffany is a smart and articulate young Caucasian girl with a bright future ahead. She has benefited from the individual attention she has received in her foster home and has made a number of gains in the last several years. Tiffany enjoys spending time with her foster family, playing board games and watching comedies. She is looking forward to joining in the traditions of a family of her own.

Tiffany is an active and friendly 8-year-old who likes socializing and talking to people. She is in the second grade and receives no special education services. In her spare time, Tiffany loves to swim, play with her dolls and work on art projects. Tiffany also enjoys learning Spanish and Portuguese in her foster home. Her foster mother says Tiffany shares well and likes being helpful.

Because she took on a parental role in her early years, Tiffany can be assertive and may act mature for her age. She shows leadership potential, which could be developed with continued work on her peer relationships.

Tiffany's social worker is seeking a nurturing family with strong parenting skills and the ability to provide redirection and limits when necessary. Tiffany would do best as an only or youngest child in a single female household or in a two-parent family, and she would enjoy having pets. Legally free for adoption, Tiffany will thrive with consistency, a lot of love, understanding and attention from a family. She has two younger brothers with whom she needs to keep in contact after she is placed in a new home.

To learn more about Tiffany, or about adoption in general, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange at 617-54-ADOPT (542-3678) or 1-800-882-1176. You can also read about other waiting children in the MARE Photolisting* located at many public libraries in the state, or visit the MARE Web site at www.mareinc.org.

This Week
Lynnfield

Well-appointed stylish home

This well-appointed home sits on a beautiful half acre lot on a pretty side street in the popular town of Lynnfield.

When it comes to style, this beauty has it all. It's similar to a colonial, but maybe more of a multi-level, but then again, it has a bit of a contemporary flair.

Enter through the front door to a lovely foyer area that was custom designed with two oversized closets and an archway into the formal fireplaced living room.

On either side of the fireplace are built-in bookcases and a wall-to-wall mantle.

The remodeled, cabinet-packed kitchen has an open concept into the fireplaced family room which was added to the main house in 1986. The vaulted ceiling affords the extra wall space for the sun windows that give the room so much added light. Through the triple atrium door, the double tiered deck is waiting for summer to arrive. (Will the snow ever leave?) Off the formal dining room is a cozy heated Florida room that was added in 1999. It has a cathedral ceiling, six extra long Andersen casement windows, and an easy-care ceramic tile floor. Curl up with a good book; this room is splashed in sunshine!

The master bedroom and bathroom were custom designed and built in 1984. The suite boasts its own stairway for that much needed privacy. Also on that wing is

Exercise improves seniors health

According to The National Institute on Aging, less than one-third of Americans over 55 are physically active. But those who have adopted a regular exercise program are living longer and enjoying their years to the fullest.

In fact, regardless of age or state of health, older adults can significantly slow the deterioration of both body and mind by engaging in regular cardiovascular exercise and strength training. Research shows that older adults who exercise have a lower risk of coronary heart disease; lower risk of hypertension; decreased blood pressure; control of late-onset diabetes; relief for arthritis pain; increased bone density; reduced risk of fractured bones; better balance; ability to avoid accidental injuries; maintenance of personal independence; and can engage in active activities such as skiing, running and cycling.

Trainer and track competitor Bill Collins is proof that an active lifestyle promotes good health throughout your life. At age 53, Collins holds the world age group record in the USA Masters Outdoor Track and Field Championships as well as the 200-meter record in three different age groups. He's won 10 World Masters titles and more than 70 American Masters crowns, and he hasn't been beaten in years! His world records in the 100, 200, and most recently, 400 meter races, make him the fastest runner alive for his age. No one in his age group anywhere in the world has run as fast.

Collins should inspire anyone who leads a sedentary lifestyle, especially older adults who, at 50, are slowing down or feel it's too late to start an exercise program. Collins has no intention of slowing down. Presently, he is only a 1/2 second off his best running time achieved at age 18. In fact, he ran faster at age 50 than when he was 40 - thanks in part to a healthy exercise plan.

EXERCISE PROGRAM TIPS

For those who are older like Collins and want to get in shape, the American Academy of Family Physicians offers these tips for starting an exercise program:

* Wear comfortable, well-fitting clothing and sturdy shoes with good arch support, and an elevated and cushioned heel to absorb shock. Collins friends call him "X-man" for the CW-X Performance Conditioning Wear tights he wears. It's a new technology that allows runners of all ages to maximize their performance because it supports muscles and joints and reduces fatigue. Collins wears them while running, biking, and hiking. For more information, visit www.cw-x.com.

* Check with your doctor first, then start slowly with exercises you are most comfortable with. You'll be less likely to injure yourself and you will prevent soreness. Start with walking. As you become used to it, you can increase the intensity of your workout.

* Engage in some type of aerobic activity (walking, swimming or bicycling) for at least 30 minutes every day, and resistance or strength training two days per week.

* Warm up for five minutes before each exercise session by walking slowly or stretching. Cool down with more stretching for five minutes (longer in warm weather).

* Don't exercise if you feel under the weather, have a cold, the flu, or another illness. Wait until you feel better. If more than two weeks pass, be sure to start slowly again.

* If your muscles or joints are sore the day after exercising, you may have overexerted yourself. Next time, exercise at a lower intensity.

* If pain or discomfort persists; if you have chest pain or pressure; have trouble breathing or have excessive shortness of breath; are light-headed or dizzy; have difficulty with balance; or feel nauseous while exercising, talk to your doctor.
